Hitler Alive, Says Zhukov

LONDON, June 9 (AP)—Marshal Zhukov, an NBC broadcast from Moscow said today, believes Hitler is hiding in Europe, possibly Spain, and it is up to American and British troops to find him. The Russian war leader also said Hitler had married Eva Braun two days before Berlin fell. Correspondent Robert Magidoff quoted Zhukov as telling that to correspondents in Berlin. Magidoff said:

"Marshal Zhukov said that his troops found a number of corpses which might have been Hitler's, but he doubts it. Hitler probably waited until the last moment and then took off in a plane that was ostensibly held in constant readiness.

"'And I think,' said the marshal, 'that Hitler is hiding somewhere in Europe, possibly with Gen. Franco. And now it's up to you British and Americans to find him.'

"Diaries of the activities of the German general staff have fallen into the hands of the Russians and from them it was learned that Hitler married the German movie actress Eva Braun."

MARSHAL ZHUKOV
Says Hitler, Eva, Still Alive

Marshal Zhukov, called the savior of Moscow for turning back the Germans in 1942, is second only to Marshal Stalin in Russian military matters. His rare public statements on world affairs have generally been considered as echoing Stalin's sentiments.

He first gained prominence in 1938 for his brilliant fighting in Outer Mongolia. In 1941, Stalin appointed him vice-commissar of defense and chief of the Red Army general staff.

He commanded the successful central front offensive in the Rzhev sector in 1942 and succeeded the famed Marshal Timoshenko at Stalingrad, where he again turned back Hitler's horde. The climax of his career came with his capture of Berlin.

Zhukov is the Russian representative on the Allied Control Commission for Germany.

"Marshal Zhukov told us he had established a strict occupation regime in Soviet-occupied Germany which forbids the men of the Red army to fraternize with the population and that he will pursue a policy of economic disarmament of Germany so thorough as to make it impossible for Germany ever to rise again as a military power.

"As for Berlin, it is ruined beyond any hope of restoration," the correspondent said. "It is a sight ghastlier than Stalingrad."

Reuter's agency carried a similar report, quoting Zhukov in regards to Hitler.

"We have not discovered any corpse which could be identified as Hitler's," Reuter's account quoted Zhukov.

Col. Gen. N. E. Bezarin, commandant of Berlin, said of Hitler: "In his chancellery we found several bodies with his name on the clothes. We found intact too many of his names on clothes. It got to be a joke. Every time I would find a pair of pants I would say, 'These are Hitler's.'"

A dispatch from Berlin Wednesday by Joseph W. Grigg, Jr., representing the combined American press at the first meeting of the four-power Allied control council in the German capital, reported that a high Russian military source said a body found in Berlin had been identified with fair certainty as that of Hitler.

The fate and whereabouts of Eva Braun, long believed to be Hitler's favorite, have not been reported since the surrender of Germany. Hitler's chief secretary, Gerhardt Herrgesell, said May 16 he believed she had elected to die by Hitler's side in Berlin.

Dr. Theodore Morrell, who said he was Hitler's personal physician, told an Associated Press correspondent May 21 that Eva Braun long "was respected among the inner members of Hitler's entourage as Hitler's wife."

THAT GUY HITLER

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—We'd better find Hitler—dead or alive—and be sure it's Hitler. If not, we'll probably have to put up with a Hitler myth for years to come.

You can see it now.

Screwballs will be jumping off buildings or under trains or dying in flophouses after scrawling a note like this: "I sure fooled everybody. Adolf H."

In 1955 a breathless Bronx housewife will call the police station:

"I have a sister who has a friend whose brother says his boss told him that a man with a little mustache, just like Hitler, with his hair in a bang and a big voice and big popeyes, was going from door to door selling postcards in the German neighborhood and a big crowd followed him down the street and can't you do something about it?

"The man said this man with the postcards looked just like Hitler and he kept saluting."

The Washington Post, deadpan, says Hitler right now, minus the mustache, may be walking around Hoboken or Milwaukee, looking for a house-painting job.

Desperate at last, the Post thinks, Hitler will grow his mustache again and try to earn a few dimes giving impersonations of himself in barrooms only to be booed for a poor imitation.

Unless Hitler is found positively, Germans for years will swear they heard his voice in the wind, sighing around their winter chimneys, that they glimpsed him on a street in Munich, that they saw him weeping on a shattered roof in Berlin.

Fanatic, secret, die-hard Nazis will be waiting for a word from him. There will be reports that in some far-off country—or maybe deep in the Black Forest of Germany—he is working out a way to whip his countrymen into one final bid for the victory he lost in 1945.

And a thousand years from now,

Chinese Capture Indo-China Key

CHUNGKING, June 9 (AP)—The Chinese high command announced today Chinese troops had captured a town on the Indo-China border in Kwangsi Province, after toppling the important highway town of Szelo, 22 miles from the Indo-Chinese frontier.

Other Chinese in Kwangsi repulsed four counterattacks by Jap troops from outposts of Ishan on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroad, 43 miles west of Liuchow, main escape route for Jap forces at Ishan.

The High Command also announced that the Japs yesterday had opened a drive southward from Nankang, in southern Kiangsi province, toward Sinfeng, 100 miles east of Kukong, the Jap-occupied provincial capital of Kwantung province.

5 Million Japs Now Homeless

GUAM, June 9 (AP)—Superforts, which by Tokyo's admission have left one of every 15 Japanese homeless, pinpointed aircraft factories in three Jap cities today while Japan's premier was telling an emergency parliament session B-29's have already caused "considerable damage" to the empire's war industry.

Tokyo reported "about 50" Mustang fighters followed up the big bombers at midday, raiding the area between Nagoya and Osaka.

Today's strike was an unescorted raid by 100 to 150 Superforts with high explosive bombs at targets in Nagoya and two small cities in the Kobe-Osaka area. It is estimated approximately five million Japs are now homeless.

In Tokyo alone, enemy reports add up to 3,100,000 homeless and 767,000 dwellings destroyed by B-29 fire raids.

Yanks Flanking Okinawa Line

By HAMILTON W. FARON

GUAM, June 9 (AP)—American infantry, attacking with flame throwers and demolition charges today began flanking the last-ditch Jap defense line on southern Okinawa along the Yaeju-Dake escarpment, which Tokyo said was being given "arms and supplies" by parachute.

Marines of the First Division drove 1600 yards to the west coast yesterday, sealing off the only possible escape corridor of the Japs in the Naha airfield area, where the enemy was compressed by the Sixth Marine Division into a three-square-mile trap.

The 84th Regiment of the Seventh Infantry Division pushed southwest from Gushichan toward Hanagusuku village. The 184th Regiment overran a stone fortification in a parallel advance.

Allies Invade Second Borneo Island

MANILA, June 9 (AP)—Tokyo radio reported Allied troops had landed yesterday on Labuan island off the north coast of Borneo, as Gen. MacArthur said Borneo was bombed heavily Thursday for the seventh straight day.

Tokyo radio said one division landed on Labuan after an Allied convoy of battleships, cruisers, destroyers and 30 smaller warships bombarded Japanese positions.

Labuan is in the China sea, almost directly across northern Borneo from Tarakan Island, which Australian and Dutch troops virtually have secured after a month's fighting.

Elsewhere in the MacArthur theater ground troops recorded steady gains in cleanup drives on Luzon and Mindanao Islands.

Meantime, in northern Luzon, the 37th Infantry Division still was making progress up highway No. 5 into the Cagayan Valley.

British Push Gains Toward Thailand

CALCUTTA, June 9 (AP)—British troops pursuing Jap forces toward the Thailand frontier have captured the lower Shan states hill station at Kalaw, 63 miles east of Thazi on the Thazi-Taunggyi road and 95 miles southeast of Mandalay.

Some 120 miles to the south, British forces moving eastward along the Toungoo-Mawchi road advanced a little more than 19 miles east of Toungoo, where they came under fire from an enemy bunker.

Suzuki Asks Dictator Power For 'Holy War'

By the Associated Press

The Japanese Diet met in an emergency session today to approve an unprecedented transfer of practically all its powers to the government of Premier Kantaro Suzuki, who told the members "our Empire is facing the most critical situation in the history of our nation."

Suzuki admitted "the war situation gradually is becoming more acute," foresaw an invasion of Japan itself, and warned the people to expect food shortages, transportation difficulties and increasing trouble in munitions manufactures.

He rejected American unconditional surrender demands, however, and contended this is "a holy war," in which "Japan is fighting to uphold the principle of human justice, and we must fight to the last."

A brief rescript from Emperor Hirohito, who opened the session in person, also referred to the conflict as "a holy war."

Speedy adoption of this "emergency measures bill" and five other "special wartime bills" was forecast in Jap broadcasts.

The drastic measure was described as an "urgent necessity" to meet the "present national crisis." It would grant the government dictatorial powers to prepare for the battle of Japan, which Suzuki told the Diet would be "totally different from previous Pacific battles and there was "an absolute possibility that we will finally repulse the enemy from our soil, smashing once and for all the enemy's will to fight."

Yonai assured the Diet the entire navy has already been converted into a "special attack (suicide) corps."

Anami, too, placed heavy reliance on special attack forces for defense of Japan and urged the entire nation to prepare to join in suicide tactics.

"The enemy's boastful talks about the unconditional surrender of Japan mean nothing but the outright death of all 100,000,000 people in this country," Suzuki said. "We have no alternative but to fight against this enemy."

SGT. AND MRS. JAKE LINDSEY
Make Plans for Vacation on the Cape

Jake, Beverly In Patton Suite

Plans for answering hundreds of letters pouring in from admirers and mothers of servicemen with whom he served were made this morning by Sgt. Jake W. Lindsey and his bride, Beverly Hargreaves, as the country's most celebrated romantic couple breakfasted this morning in the suite recently vacated by Gen. Patton after "the first good night's sleep in a long time."

ON THE WAY, AGAIN—Actress Jinx Falkenburg, bumped off a TWA stratoliner, at Albuquerque, N. M., while flying East for her wedding tomorrow to Lt. Col. John R. (Tex) McCray, is again on her way through the air. The USO obtained a priority for the curvaceous actress and her mother to enable them to continue their flight from Hollywood to New York.

"We'll answer every one of them ourselves," the happy couple said, adding, "particularly those from mothers whose sons lost their lives. We'll do it just as soon as we get a minute's time."

Looking refreshed, Sgt. Jake and his bride revealed his younger brother SF 1c James L. "Bobby" Lindsey, who just returned from more than two years overseas has been invited to spend a few days with them on Cape Cod. The brothers have not seen each other for more than four years.

Beverly's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James R. Lindsey of Massachusetts ave., Lexington, arrived to take the happy couple home for a visit. Sgt. Jake met his mother-in-law for the first time last night.

Jake and Beverly—he calls her Sugar, she calls him Honey—go to Cape Cod tomorrow for a brief vacation at the Hargreaves summer home in Centerville.

Next week they go to New York where the sergeant will appear on Milton Berle's radio program. That's as far ahead as they've planned right now.

Sgt. Lindsey, first serviceman to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor personally from Pres. Truman, hasn't decided yet just what he'll do when he gets his Army discharge.

"I'm going to apply for it," the Lucedale, Miss., soldier said, "but not just yet. Sugar—that's Bev, of course—and I have a lot of swimming and dancing to do. Then, the Army wants me to do a job for the War Bond drive. I've had a stack of offers of jobs with big pay and the one I'm considering is personnel manager of a Chicago department store."

And Beverly said she was willing to go anywhere with her "Bill."

U. S. to Keep 600,000 PWs

PARIS, June 9 (AP)—The U. S. Army disclosed today it plans to retain 600,000 German prisoners of war as laborers.

When victory came, American armies held 2,852,000 German war prisoners on the Continent. In addition to the 600,000 to be used by the Army, arrangements have been completed for transferring 200,000 to 225,000 American-held prisoners to France for labor. They will come under complete charge of the French just as if the French had captured them.

Slight Cut Coming In Discharge Points

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—The Army said today the new critical score for discharge of GIs will be announced in July. While some reduction below the present 85 points will be made, "it is not expected to be very great."

Patton, Doolittle Wing Westward

DENVER, Col., June 9 (INS)—Bound for a gigantic welcome celebration at Los Angeles, Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., and Lt. Gen. James Doolittle, together with 50 other returning heroes, took off in a group of huge Army planes from Buckley Field at 8:20 a. m. (MWT) today.

Both Patton and Doolittle were accompanied by their wives. The party were due in Los Angeles at about 1 p. m.

Shangri-La Stage Set for Air Rescue

By RALPH MORTON

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea, June 9 (AP)—A glider expert who knows the jungle and its strange tribesmen acted as aerial advisor today while paratroopers in the "Hidden Valley of Shangri-La" prepared a dramatic rescue.

Michael J. Leahy, a Royal Australian Air Force squadron leader, probably will land the glider and remove the WAC and two Army airmen who survived a transport crash 28 days ago which killed a score of other Army sightseers.

Watched by giant, spear-armed natives, the paratroopers labored on the swampy strip in the fantastic valley 150 miles southwest of Hollandia. The paratroopers had brought the natives their first contact with the world outside.

Nearby are the red and white pyramidal Army tents which house the surviving trio, two medical technicians, eight paratroopers and Capt. Cecil A. Walters, the latter the ground director.

The men parachuted to attend the survivors and build the field where the glider will be sent in, then jerked into the air by the grab-hook of a low-flying C47.

"We dropped you a case of beer," announced Maj. George Gardner, of Cleveland, in a radio conversation on a supply flight.

"That's the best news we've had yet," replied a Filipino paratrooper, using a parachuted walkie-talkie.

The trio of survivors — WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, Lt. John B. McCollom, and Sgt. Kenneth W. Decker, are being treated for injuries by parachuted medical supplies and are in good condition.

Months ago, Squadron Leader Leahy supervised a glider landing in a little explored Ifitamin valley of New Guinea headhunters where conditions are somewhat analagous to Hidden Valley.

The six-foot natives of Hidden Valley have made no menacing move although known to war on each other. However, they have been slow to make friends. Walter's men are armed.

The soil has proved so rough and swampy that Walters favors sending in a glider equipped with skiis.

The captain radioed an order for special equipment, including a dozen machetes and jungle boots.

In a plane over the valley, I watched supplies pushed out by Sgt. James W. Kirchanski, a paratroop rigger, land near the rescue camp. These included the beer, field rations, radio batteries and personal mail.

One supply plane was unable to drop its precious cargo of food because the valley was clouded over, a situation which may have been a factor in the May 13 crash.

Woman Heard 2 Death Shots

By JEANETTE SMITS

NEW YORK, June 9 (INS)—A woman neighbor of Mrs. Marion Grimes Langford revealed today that she heard the muffled sound of two shots in Langford apartment the night Alfred Langford, 63-year-old textile manufacturer, was killed.

The new evidence in the mysterious Hotel Marguery murder came as Mrs. Langford, the 70-year-old widow, offered $10,000 reward for the capture of the "two dark men" who killed her husband.

The latest witness is Mrs. W. Brinkerhoff, described by hotel employes as a middle-aged woman. She lives alone in an apartment directly across the hall from the seventh floor suite where Langford met death with a .38 calibre bullet in his head.

Another shot was fired at Langford from a .32 calibre automatic pistol. This one went wild, struck the ceiling and fell to the floor.

Mrs. Langford, who was reclining in her bedroom, about 30 feet from the foyer, told police she did not hear either shot. She heard, she said, only the sounds of a scuffle and a thud. On reaching the side of her fallen husband, she at first thought he had been slugged.

But Mrs. Brinkerhoff told police: "I heard two reports which sounded like 'pop . . . pop.'"

Police were baffled as to how Mrs. Brinkerhoff could have heard shots through the closed door, if Mrs. Langford could not hear them.

Meanwhile, police searched for a "baroness" and Indian chief who, in one of the fantastic sidelights of the case, were said to have arranged Langford's marriage three years ago to the then Mrs. Robert Grimes for $25,000.

The pair, identified by police as Baroness Beatrice Coleman and Chief Robert Redwing, were named by Reed Lawton, 30-year-old singing protege of Mrs. Langford, as the "matchmakers" in the marriage. They allegedly threatened to "get" Langford for welching on his debt.

Car Upset Kills Mother of 5

Mrs. Frances W. Cammarano, 35, of Grozier rd., Cambridge, mother of five children, was killed today when the auto in which she was riding overturned in Lower Main st., Hudson.

Russell J. Lindstrom of Blakely st., Medford, alleged operator of the wrecked machine, was arrested by Hudson police on charges of manslaughter and of operating to endanger. He was bailed in $1000 for appearance in Marlboro District Court Monday.

The dead woman's husband, Gaetano Cammarano, went to Hudson to claim her body.

Beware! Weather Men Shift Here

Better keep your overcoat, umbrella, rubbers and woolies handy for a while.

Boston's new weather forecaster, William H. Tracy, arrived today after giving Buffalo, N. Y., the worst winter in years.

He quickly disclaimed responsibility for the record-breaking snow and cold in upper New York and pointed to the sunshine which greeted him as "just a sample of what I hope to produce here."

Tracy will share blame for Boston's weather until June 30 with G. Harold Noyes, meteorologist since 1933, who will retire on that date.

Reich to Lose War Industries

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Paris, June 9 (AP)—Germany will be stripped of various industries to destroy her future war potential, through one of the principal functions of the reparations program, Ambassador Edwin W. Pauley, President Truman's personal representative on the Allied reparations commission, announced today.

Pauley said it was the view of the United States that any German industries of a war nature which could not be removed should be destroyed.

E. W. Pauley

"We do not want another war to take place," Pauley said, "and we are anxious to see that type of equipment taken out of Germany, even though we don't want it ourselves."

Pauley heads the American delegation en route to the initial reparations conference in Moscow under plans laid down at Yalta.

Pauley indicated the American delegation, which has completed a survey in the American-occupied zone of Germany, was going to Moscow with a definite program, but virtually in the dark as to the desires of Russia and Britain, only other powers to be represented.

He said there had been no exchange of views.

Pauley and 18 to 20 others of the 35-man delegation will leave Monday for Moscow. The others, all technical representatives, will continue studying possibilities of reparations in Germany.

Speaking strictly as an American representative and principally on a basis of preliminary observations made in Germany, Pauley said the United States realized mistakes were made in reparations after World War I and "we don't intend to make the same ones this time."

Damage to property and cost of effort and energy in defeating the enemy form the principal basis for reparations, Pauley said.

"It would be futile for us to seek repayment for the total cost of our war effort," he said. "Both money and lives are gone."

But he declared the United States would assert a claim, although "as to what it will be I am not prepared to say."

Disclosing the United States is feeding 7,000,000 persons in Germany, including troops, prisoners of war and displaced persons, Pauley said it seemed like false economy to conside- reparations until after that burden was lifted.

He and his staff found that Germany's transportation system was so wrecked by bombing it would take an inestimable time to repair it, but her industrial capacity—with exceptions, such as fuel production—could be restored in eight months.

He said the German gold hoard uncovered by Patton's Army would be considered by the reparations commission as a means of restitution and disclosed that certain countries—which he did not name—already had advanced claims to portions of it.

End of Parley With Charter Seen by June 20

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9 (AP)—The United Nations conference moved a long step nearer completion of a new World Charter today with plans for international trusteeships virtually complete and the veto voting formula under apparently final debate.

With more certainty than they have shown previously most delegates are talking about June 20 as the windup date on which President Truman may address the conference, though some few still held hope for June 15 or 16.

The pressure for speed is so great that weary delegates were called to meet tonight in a committee session dealing with the voting formula under which the great powers would retain a veto control over all major decisions of the proposed world security council.

Since Russia agreed with the United States, Britain, China and France Thursday that the veto could not be used to prevent free discussion in the council, it only remains now for the small nations to express their views on the formula. All signs indicate they will accept it.

The break on international trusteeships came in a three and one-half hour session when Russian objections on two points involving independence for trusteed peoples and the status of present mandated territories were ironed out.

Jap Brawls, Mutiny Discovered in Davao

By RICHARD BERGHOLZ

EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, June 9 (AP)—Frontline 24th Division troops reported a wild, drunken brawl by hard-pressed Japs in the Davao area today and evidences a Japanese major's command had mutinied against him.

The indications of demoralization of the Japs contrasted sharply, however, with stubborn, almost fanatical delaying actions being fought elsewhere on the Davao front.

Outposts at a Yank position spotted a Jap figure lurching through early morning mists toward their lines and shot him. When the sun was up the Americans found the body of a Jap major who apparently had been forced to walk toward American lines with his hands tied behind his back.

At another place, the Japs threw a drunken brawl. All night long the soldiers of the Rising Sun shouted and laughed and screamed. At dawn a Jap waving a saki bottle was shot as he approached American lines. Another was riddled as he staggered down a trail singing.

In contrast, other Japanese in the area are fighting with fanaticism. Two enemy units north of Davao have been fighting furiously and exacting heavy toll with mortar and machinegun fire although they are hopelessly isolated.

Purdue Head Comes Out for Peace Draft

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—A compulsory peace-time draft program for a trial period of five years was recommended to Congress today by Edward C. Elliott, president of Purdue University.

One of the few educators to support universal military training proposals, Elliott told the House post-war military policy committee:

"The happenings of the present, day by day, afford little encouragement for the removal of the stresses and strains of war conditions during the years immediately ahead."

"At the moment," he said, "I have the conviction this nation must face the grim and realistic fact that conditions approximating an enduring peace in the world are beyond early attainment."

At the end of three to five years, he declared, "we shall know things we cannot now know, and then we shall have learned the invaluable lessons learned only by experience."

The committee concluded a week of public hearings today with members still leaning heavily toward a recommendation for a peacetime military draft.

Before they face a decision on whether to recommend that the United States adopt peacetime conscription of 18-year-olds, they will hear another week of testimony on both sides.

Bing Common Bond Sale Sets 'Em Wild

O-o-o-h, Frankie, look what's going on!

Some guy about 40 came to Boston today, claiming he was a singer like you (imagine), and you know what, 30,000 dizzy kids swooned all over Boston Common just because he made it with the tonsils.

Nobody could hear anything the way those kids (all with your bobby-sox trademark) squealed, but when the elderly gent was introduced it sounded like his name was Bing Crosby. They called him a great crooner, imagine, Frankie.

This guy they called Crosby (some said he was "The Groaner") was trying to sell war bonds at that place they call Parkman Bandstand. But everybody made like crazy and all he could do was sing, but not like y-o-o-U," Frankie.

It would have made you sick, Frankie, my dream, if you could o' seen them crazy girls. Just pushing, shoving, screaming, tearing each other's hair. And what for? I ask you.

Just to touch that fellow or get a button from his coat, or his hat, or his shirt, or his shoes. Imagine silly kids like that, Frankie. Disgusting, I'll say.

Why, you know, Frankie, some of those kids actually squealed like they do for you when this Crosby guy sang "Sentimental Journey, "Accentuate the Positive," and one everybody hummed with him what he called "An Irish Lullaby."

Don't get me wrong, you wonderful man, but I gotta admit he sorter held them with his sending. Gee, he was swe—aw, he was pretty good.

Gov. Tobin and Mayor Kerrigan, they were there, too, and some of those kids actually tried to rip their clothes, too, Frankie. But, Frankie, the crazies finally let this Crosby fellow and the Governor and the mayor get to the car after the cops practically busted their heads to make a path.

This will kill you, Frankie. A tie, imagine, just a tie that Crosby put up for war bonds was bought by William H. Flanagan of Clearwater st., Back Bay, for $2500. There was lots more selling of war bonds, which I think is good, but ain't those kids fickle?

Oh, then somebody with lots of money paid $1000 for a nasty German swastika put up by Mayor Kerrigan.

The rest of the story I'll let my father tell you, Frankie. Here's pa:

Bing began his busy day with breakfast at the Governor's home in Hopkins rd., Jamaica Plain, after which he and the chief executive drove to Fore River shipyard to attend the launching of the U. S. S. Oregon City.

This afternoon he paired with Governor Tobin in a golf match against Jesse Guilford and Freddie Wright at Commonwealth Country Club for the Professional Golf Ass'n Rehabilitation Fund.

Resisting the temptation to drop down to Narragansett, Crosby will top his day in Boston with an appearance in Cushing Hospital under the auspices of the Elks' War Commission Ass'n.

Gizzards, Chicken Feet Headliners in Markets

There was no need for a Boston food shopper to leave the market district empty-handed today—if she was willing to pay 45 cents a pound for the turkey gizzards or buy some chicken claws for whatever they might yield in the way of soup.

There were no jostling crowds or impatient lines in the market streets. Recent experience had taught housewives to expect little there in the way of meats, poultry or eggs, and to find nothing at all on occasion.

Today even the once lowly spud was added to the roster of hard to get staples. Marketmen said it was the result of poor distribution. The housewife, unable to remedy that quirk of trade, had to be resigned to a rationed five pounds in some neighborhoods, and in many other districts sales were limited to two pounds—while the tubers lasted.

Disgruntlement was in the air. It was not confined to the housewives or to husbands who were doomed to a week-end of fare that would have been considered substandard living even in some sections of the rural south.

The onion men in the market district were putting up a few squawks themselves. They were discussing OPA in terms which would have displeased the officials of that agency very much.

One onion vender said:

"We have to pay $3.81 a bag for onions and the OPA retail ceiling is $3.82 a bag. Why should we bother to buy or sell onions? Let OPA answer that one if you find onions hard to get."

Many stalls were closed in the Quincy and Faneuil Hall Markets. Some counters displayed meat that would normally be consigned to the scrap barrel.

It was at the Faneuil Hall Market that a few hopeful customers dazedly read the sign:

"Young Turkey Gizzards—45 cents a lb." There were two trays of them awaiting takers at the price.

It was at the same market where the chicken claws had been offered as a soup possibility.

In one stall at Faneuil Hall there was bona fide beef but the harried proprietor told bidders:

"We are just trying to figure out how to stretch what we've got to fill orders we already have taken."

Had meat hunters not been so discouraged by previous trips to the market they might have picked up an order of corned beef or spareribs at one stall in Quincy Market but this was an exception to the rule.

In the vegetable line there was a severe shortage of beans to accentuate the scarcity of potatoes and onions. The only bright spot in the food picture was that greenhouse owners and market gardeners of the Great Boston area were beginning to supply the local market with some fresh vegetables.

Today they came into town with greenhouse tomatoes, cucumbers, radishes, rhubarb, white turnips, beets and cabbage.

There might have been the makings of a stew there if anyone could find any stock to go with it.

Householders to Get 5 P.C. More Lamb

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP)—The War Food Administration announced today civilians will receive five per cent more of the federally-inspected supply of the three top grades of lamb for an indefinite period.

Under an order effective tomorrow, the military services will take 20 instead of 25 per cent of these grades of lamb.

WFA also extended government control over all imports of poultry from Canada, Mexico, Guatemala and El Salvador. The government will be given first chance at buying such poultry for the military services before any of it may be sold to civilians.

RUTH McMANUS
"Twirling" Is a Problem

BARBARA BELL
Her Victory Is Protested

Strutter Or Twirler in Marblehead?

Leading the Marblehead School Band is not only the rage but the issue of who shall lead it next fall has precipitated a rage among the students which today drew in the parents of two girls for whom the town is divided.

The comely misses, blonde Barbara Bell and dark-tressed Ruth McManus, are not exactly speaking—but practically everyone else is.

The issue whether a "strutter" or a "twirler" should inspire the student bandsmen is being discussed on street corners, in stores and in homes. Miss Bell is the practitioner of one technique. Miss McManus is known as an exponent of the other.

Meanwhile the school committee is pondering the fact that an executive session of school officials in the office of Principal Erold Beach was stormed by tearful feminine supporters of Miss McManus when word got around town that Miss Bell had been chosen by State Guardsmen judges after a contest between the two girls.

Mrs. Merton Bell, mother of the reported winner, said today:

"The contest was decided by Mr. Beach, the principal, and Ernest Westcott, the bandmaster. The girls had been called to the office of the principal and both agreed to the test—not to include twirling, because Miss McNanus would not compete with my daughter for twirling. After the contest, the two judges called in both girls and announced my daughter had been chosen."

That was not the way John McManus, father of the reportedly disqualified girl, understood it. He said:

"It should be understood that one reason why twirling was barred was not because Ruth was an inferior twirler but because her opponent had in some way acquired knowledge there was to be such a contest two weeks in advance and took advantage of this knowledge to prepare for it, whereas Ruth received notice of the contest only two days in advance.

"Strutting," said Mr. McManus, "was supposed to be eliminated from the marking in the contest—and strutting is objected to by many townspeople—yet the other contestant strutted and it undoubtedly had an effect on the marking."

Army Calls 10 Of F. D. Secret Service Guard

WASHIGTON, June 9 (INS)—Ten secret service agents, who served on the White House detail protecting the life of President Roosevelt throughout the war, have been suddenly removed and notified to report to the Army for induction as privates, it was learned today.

All but one of the men are between the ages of 30 and 39. Six of them are married and five of them have children.

They include Michael F. Reilly of Anaconda, Mont., who was chief of the White House detail for several years.

The agents were relieved of their posts one month after the death of Mr. Roosevelt. They had protected him during his journeys at home and abroad.

The men were given notice of transfer to field offices of the Secret Service. They then learned their deferments had been withdrawn by Frank Wilson, chief of the Secret Service. All have now received notices of induction into the enlisted reserve of the Army.

They have been ordered to report to the induction center at New Cumberland, Pa.

Hitler

if he is not found, he will pass into the folklore of the race. He'll be a demon to all men of good will, a patron angel to evil men who will find in the memory of him a new incentive to be inhuman.

There have been other myths about other big names when there was a lot less mystery about their deaths.

The British supposedly burned Joan of Arc to death at the stake. Years later, according to legend, she bobbed up in her home town, married a local boy and settled down.

A French firing squad was supposed to have finished off Marshal Ney for deserting Louis XVIII for his old commander, Napoleon. Years afterward people swore he wasn't shot at all, that he escaped and taught school in South Carolina.

Napoleon himself—in spite of all the evidence that he died in exile on St. Helena—haunted the French. They kept whispering that he didn't die, that he escaped and was coming any minute now to raise a new army.

There were probably a hundred myths about John Wilkes Booth who shot Lincoln. These myths said he wasn't shot to death by Union soldiers but appeared later in a dozen American cities and cut his throat 40 years after Lincoln died.

News dispatches from Berlin early this week said a burned-up body found there was identified "with fair certainty" as that of Hitler. This was attributed to a "high Russian military source."

But the same stories said four charred bodies were found and that any one of them answered fairly well to the description of Hitler.

This is pretty flimsy identification. Because it's so vague—and unless Hitler or his body is identified beyond dispute—look out for the myths and for men with little mustaches and big pop-eyes.

Paper in Milan Cites "Proof" Hitler Is Alive

By WARREN IRVIN

CHIASSO, Swiss-Italian border, June 9 (INS)—The official Allied military government newspaper in Milan today questioned whether Hitler actually is dead.

The paper, Giornale Lombardo, said officials of the Reichschancellery who formerly insisted the Fuehrer's death was certain, now admit they never actually saw his corpse. The article cited evidence of an SS leader, last person known to have seen Hitler.

It was on April 27th in Hitler's office in the chancellery, the paper said. Hitler was seated on a divan while Eva Braun was writing at a nearby table.

Suddnely, Hitler was seized with one of his rages, the report declared, and told the SS leader:

"While I live there will never be war between Russia, Britain and America. They are agreed in wishing my destruction. If I disappear they will not remain united long; a collision will be inevitable.

"It is imperative that when that time comes I must be alive to put myself at the head of the German people and lead them to victory.

"The Reich cannot hope for the future unless the world believes me dead. I must . . ."

At this moment the SS leader was asked to leave. He fell into Allied hands when he was wounded.

The newspaper also cited the letter they said Eva Braun had written to her parents. In it she told them not to worry if they did not hear from her for a long time.

TWINS DIE — Actress Gail Patrick today disclosed that twins born prematurely to her last week died within a few hours of their birth. Miss Patrick, wife of Navy Lt. Arnold D. White, withheld the disclosure until her husband returned to Hollywood from overseas.

GI Lives to Read Death Telegrams

PHILADELPHIA, June 9 (AP)—PFC Thomas J. Gatley is home from the Italian front, reading War Department telegrams.

Starting March, 1944, arriving in this order, the telegram advised that PFC Gatley:

Had been wounded; had been captured; had died a prisoner of war; hadn't been captured but was killed in action; hadn't been killed in action but was captured; hadn't died while a prisoner, and finally, had been liberated.

None of it had happened to him.

Salome Film at Keith's Tuesday

Yvonne DeCarlo is Hollywood's latest overnight sensation. Until Walter Wanger selected her to play the Salome part in his spectacular Technicolor production, "Salome, Where She Danced!" Her screen appearance depended upon chassis, not thespic ability.

She was chosen after a nation-wide talent quest in which over 20,000 contestants submitted photographs and were considered for the coveted assignment. The prize was a contract guaranteeing her the role of "the most beautiful girl in the world."

On Tuesday, Keith Memorial Theater will unveil "Salome, Where She Danced!" and the customers will have their opportunity to agree or disagree with the Wanger measure of beauty.

It is Miss DeCarlo's Salome dance which is expected to arouse the most comment among the moviegoers. Torrid and dazzling are the advance words on it from the West Coast.

Glamor in Beach Wear

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

CAN YOU "BARE" IT? If you can . . . this summer is the time . . . and the beach is the place . . . the hot sands where you can drape your Venus-like figure as a perfect target for the sun's rays. Brief as an exclamation point . . . and just as attention-getting . . . are the cool-looking, abbreviated to the minimum swim suits.

More sun, less yardage . . . that's the theme of today's summer fashions which dare you to bare all you dare. Although you'll be wearing "plenty of nothing" . . . making the most of very little . . . be sure you have the silhouette to grin and "bare" it . . . or you'll be an insult to your own intelligent understanding of style.

Play up to your best points. Covered or uncovered . . . pert or sophisticated . . . find your place in the sun with clothes that are styled for fun, fit and flattery . . . water-babies that give you ample and every opportunity to catch every last ray of health-giving goodness. Bask and be beautiful all at the same time.

BLACK IS TOP COLOR

And, give black serious consideration . . . black that makes you look so cool, slim and enticing! Black that has hidden potentialities of cutting down the silhouette lines. Black to swim in . . . to play in . . . black unrelieved or spiked with brilliant color!

From all indications . . . the beaches will be a carnival of bright colors and fashion gaiety this year . . . in keeping with the mounting emotions of regained joy and hoped-for normalcy. In and out of the water . . . be a picture of water witchery!

Bare your back and shoulders to the sun in off-the-shoulder playsuits and sunback dresses. The dresses mate up with capes or jackets for going into town or to the local movie house. Midriffs come out in the open in playsets and even in one-piece playdresses . . . as well as swim suits . . . these saucy two-piecers that allow for boardwalking if they have an added skirt.

THREE-PIECE PLAYSUITS

Put yourself really in the mood for glamor and fun with one of the new cotton cholo coats. You'll be the envy of every eye . . . for these cute chopped off little coats expose only the length of long, suntanned legs. Shorts and slacks come out in the country . . . or in the garden behind the house. Three-piece playsuits are equipment for any number of pastimes . . . mean the minimum of underclothing . . . and yet are demure enough to do the shopping in the city.

When you're in the dress-up mood . . . put on a cotton eyelet batiste. These lovely, air-conditioned dresses keep you cool on a sizzling day and look right across the dinner table top and on the dance floor. If you're lucky enough to get a formal invite . . . make the most of it in a crisp, youthful organdie . . . or in a sophisticated gingham gown.

Beach Days Coming--- We Hope!

LIGHT AS thistledown . . . though it wears like iron . . . here's a magic swim suit that molds the figure without clinging in the wrong spots and dries with amazing speed. A Cole of California model . . . it is made of Ponemah and has the appearance of silk. The back is black and the contrasting color fronts come in aqua, red, fold, fuschia, pink.

IDEAL for sunning or beach wear . . . and sturdy enough for active sports is this Duchess Royal combination of stark black polo shorts and bra . . . fashioned of a washable, heavier butcher linen-like Brighton rayon. There's drama in black . . . and black is top fashion this season, on or off the hot sands.

BANDS of brilliant embroidery trim this sun suit of black Guatemalan cotton . . . a Tina Leser dream-child. The skirt wraps around in a pareo . . . and the bra holds on with a one-shoulder strap. In the same feeling of luxurious sunning . . . the model wears a black Doche net tied with a green ribbon and accented with a white rose for an extension of the Guatemalan influence.

STRIPPED and striped . . . the Grecian influence is reflected in this uniquely designed beach suit. Created in Nofade cotton . . . the one-strap bra strap crosses at the back to become a rhythmic sash atop the side-shirred shorts. CBS actress Phyllis Creore is ready for the water, as you can see.—R. M.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY—Certain actions of American Communists in this country have added fuel to the general fear of Communism as an international force. Earl Browder has been reprimanded for an attitude which many of us believed had represented the attitude of the Soviet government.

We feel that any nation has a right within its own borders to the kind of government it feels best meets the needs of the people, but when those beliefs begin to encroach on other people, fear is awakened.

The next step, we have learned through the rise of Fascism, is to try by force to push upon the rest of the world the beliefs which your particular nation holds.

It frightens us to see any group in our midst proposing to propagandize instead of cooperating where possible and letting people think and act for themselves. This might lead to war at home and abroad. Therefore, the French Communist leader and the American Communists who encourage a policy of world revolution have done the peace of the world harm.

* * *

I AM NOT AFRAID of the Communists in the United States.

As a people, we are not afraid of the Soviet Union. We feel kindly toward the Soviet people. We do not understand them very well, nor do we understand their problems or their real feelings about things which affect us deeply. That understanding can only come gradually.

* * *

THE SOONER we clear up authoritatively this whole situation of the Communist party outside of the Soviet Union, the better chance we will have for peace in the future. The Russian people should know this, and so should the people of the United States.

If they both demand a clarification of a situation which may grow until it endangers peace in the world, responsible people will have to listen.

Q—At the time my husband entered the service, we had our children boarded out. We maintained smaller quarters. My husband made out an allotment for the children, but failed to include me. He claims that while I am able to work, I am not eligible for allotment. Also to whom can he make out his government insurance policy? G. E. W., Lynn.

A—As long as you are his legal wife, regardless of your working or not, you are entitled to $50 a month under Family Allotment. He should file application for yor allotment and insist this be done. His policy may name wife, children, parent brother or sister as beneficiary.

Q—My brother-in-law has been overseas for 18 months and was wounded in France. Later he received the Purple Heart. Will he be home before going to the Pacific? How long a furlough will be granted? I. A., East Boston.

A—It is safe to assume that he will be returned to the United States and given at least a 30-day furlough. Whether or not he will be given Pacific area assignment is hard to determine. The above practice is being followed in the European Theater of Operations.

Q—My husband was a private in the Army stationed in England. He was given a court-martial sentence until Feb. 1947, after being found guilty on AWOL charges. This sentence is now being served in New York. My allotment has been stopped and I am in financial distress and have two children to support. Could you tell me where I might get assistance and also some clothing for myself and children? H. R., Somerville.

A—Suggest that you contact officials of Somerville Welfare Board, located in City Hall and also the Somerville Red Cross Chapter, on Elm st.

Q—I would like to get further information regarding farm loan guaranty program under G. I. Bill. Where would I write? Y. D., Worcester.

A—At any regional office of the Veterans Administration, at Loan Guaranty Office, Veterans Administration, Washington 25, D. C., or any Veteran organization service office. Eligible lenders have instructions, forms and regulations.

WHY FOOD IS SCARCE

DURING HEARINGS recently before the Food Committee of the House of Representatives, the significant admission was frankly made by an official of the War Food Administration that the best cure for the nation's critical egg shortage would be removal of Federal price restrictions.

Testifying that the egg situation is bad now and is going to get worse, Thomas G. Stitts, head of the Dairy and Poultry Branch of the War Food Administration, told the Committee:

"It seems only fair, both to the industry and the consumer, to get LEGITIMATE DISTRIBUTION by returning to the old system of supply and demand."

It is to be wondered if this acknowledgement does not call up the whole question of Federal price control and regulation for re-examination.

It is not only the supply of eggs that has been short under the prevailing price control system, but nearly all basic and essential commodities are having the same experience.

What has happened in the egg market is that the Government has attempted to enforce a price ceiling that does not return the cost of production to the producer.

Hence there are not sufficient eggs in the legal market to supply consumer needs.

INSTEAD, THE BULK OF THE EGG SUPPLY IS FINDING ITS WAY INTO THE SO-CALLED "BLACK MARKET" WHERE NOT ONLY THE COST OF PRODUCTION IS OBTAINABLE BUT AN USURIOUS PROFIT AS WELL.

Since it is not only in eggs, but in nearly all essential commodities, that the price control system has encouraged and even created black markets and made them usuriously profitable to the operators and at the same time the only adequate source of consumer supply, it is time to inquire if the whole principle of price control has not proved more harmful than beneficial.

The only real justification there has ever been for price control was in the promise of the Government and the expectation of the people that it would assure an adequate supply of essential foods and goods at a reasonable price.

But our national experience with the egg market, and with the supplies of other foods and goods, is obviously that Government meddling with prices does not prevent black markets but merely MEANS black markets and drives the people into them.

In other words, natural economic forces tend to operate in SPITE of price controls—with the main disadvantage under price control that honest people are penalized and dishonest people flourish.

NOT ENOUGH

MASSACHUSETTS has crossed the 60 per cent mark in the Seventh War Loan campaign for $238,000,000 in bond sales to individuals.

This is a good achievement, but not good enough.

We should have attained our full quota days ago.

Today we should be far beyond it.

The money which our country asks us to invest means safety and an early home-coming for our fighting sons.

It is the only practical way we have of assuring these heroic men that we are backing them up fully.

Those who have neglected to buy bonds should subscribe immediately.

And those who can afford more should lose no time in obtaining them.

We can, and we most certainly should, make the Seventh War Loan campaign completely successful in Massachusetts before another week passes.

When I go out at evening
Or walk at morning air,
Every rustling bush will seem to say
I used to meet thee there.
I dote on every spot
Where I have been with thee,
And call to mind some loving word
By every flower and tree

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Add members of the MNIAP Club: Eugene Maljean, Jackson Heights, L. I., N. Y. . . . Now the headline writers are getting poetic. As witness following headline on recent dispatch: "Truman Maps Doom for Japs" . . . A Detroiter tells he went over to Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, and during a two-week stay there enjoyed some marvelous meals. For 90 cents he had a dinner that would have cost him at least $3.50 in New York or Detroit. Food and drinks of all description were available. Also, cigars and cigarets. Everything moderately priced.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—I am a Libra girl. My dearest friend, with whom I love to argue, is a Capricorn. Please name some celebrated Libra and Capricorn women. I claim the smart Libras outnumber the Capricorns two to one. A—Looks as if you may win this argument. Names of some celebrated Libra females are Greer Garson, Constance Bennett, Janet Gaynor, Miriam Hopkins, Helen Hayes, Sarah Bernhardt, Carole Lombard, Eleanor Duse and Eleanor Roosevelt. Some famous Capricorn women are Marlene Dietrich, Anita Louise and Kay Francis. Q—Am a corporal in the Marine Women's Reserve. The man I think a lot of and I are looking for the poem with the line, "Beautiful butterflies dancing in fields across the way." Can you help us? A—Your query surprises this department. Our Horses & Women experts have been advised that members of the Marine Women's Reserve were the least romantic of the female branches of the armed services. The WAVES are said to be the most intense moonlight walk enthusiasts. We regret we haven't the poem you request. All we have in our butterfly files is a notation reading, "wouldn't it be more appropriate to call a butterfly a flutterby?" and the following poem by Haniel Long:

Miriam Hopkins

There will be butterflies,
There will be summer skies
And flowers upthrust
When all that Caesar bids,
And all the pyramids,
Are dust.

SAYS SHE: "The well-known conceit of the male leads all men to believe all women are wild to get married at once," writes a young woman of Detroit. "I am 18 and a welder in a war plant. I don't want to get married. Well, not for five years at least. Meanwhile, any Marine or other man who is my escort need not be alarmed. I will not take advantage of the poor weak thing and marry him against his will."

PLEASE NOTE: All employes of city, county, state and federal governments who come in direct contact with the public should be subjected to a rigid test as to personality. Any employe who has the least trace of arrogance in his make-up should be transferred to a department where it is not necessary to contact citizens. Nothing burns a law-abiding taxpayer so much as to be shoved around verbally by an arrogant public employe. Such treatment is not only annoying, but it does not inspire respect for the government. It is dangerous to the internal peace of the land.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc

WASHINGTON, June 9—There is a fellow here from Iowa as Senator. His name is Hickenlooper.

Harold Ickes

I strive to control myself. I won't give way to my baser instincts. I say to myself, over and over: "I will not make any cracks about Hickenlooper—I will not make any cracks about Hickenlooper—I won't—I won't—I won't—!"

★ ★ ★

YOU will be relieved to learn that Secretary of the Interior Ickes has solved a centuries-old riddle—the location of the winter home of the chimney swift.

I know Secretary Ickes has solved the riddle because he says so himself.

He announced the great discovery in a long departmental release, which—oddly enough—begins as follows:

"The solution of a centuries-old riddle of bird migration—the location of the winter home of the chimney swift—was announced by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service."

Mr. Ickes, of course, is head of Fish and Wildlife, just as he is of almost everything else. Including the Scandinavian.

The Scandinavian, in this instance, is a party named Olaf, who works for the Grazing Service (another Ickes enterprise) and who is always going around muttering in stage Swedish:

"I ban Olaf. I ban Olaf for a long time. But I wish I could ban Ickes!"

★ ★ ★

ANYWAY, the winter home of the chimney swift has been an overworked riddle. People are forever going up to each other in Washington, saying:

"Wanna hear a riddle? Where does the chimney swift spend the winter?"

The answer has always been, "To get to the other side ——." But this now turns out to be erroneous.

★ ★ ★

THE ACTUAL FACT of the matter—as Dear Harold now reveals—is that the swifts winter in the River Yanayaco region in Peru.

The Interior Department describes the finding as "one of the most important ornithological discoveries in at least two decades," explaining that the chimney swift was the only North American bird whose wintering grounds had not been previously charted.

The department, in its anxiety to solve the riddle, has put leg-bands on 375,000 swifts in the last 10 years. I do not think Ickes did this all himself.

I have often wished I could put a band on him to learn where he spends the winter, but it would mean holding his leg while I did it.

Not one of these 375,000 banded birds was found in winter quarters until recently when Peruvian Indians shot down 13. The bands have been returned here through the American embassy at Lima.

The discovery is intensely gratifying to me personally, because, as long as I can remember I have been saying to the little kiddies in our neighborhood:

"Where do you suppose them —— swifts have gone to?"

"THE MYSTERY surrounding the location of the swifts' winter home was so great that even eminent naturalists of the past generation fell back on weird medieval theories, such as the one that the birds buried themselves in the mud of swamps and hibernated until spring.

"While the solution of the mystery of the swifts means that at least part of the winter range of every North American bird is now known, there remains one bird whose nest and eggs have never been discovered. This is the bristle-thighed curlew, which is believed to nest somewhere in Alaska and crosses thousands of miles of the Pacific to winter in the islands of the South Pacific."

I am astounded that Ickes does not know the nesting place of the bristle-thighed curlew.

MR. WALTER O'KEEFE, the eminent Broadway entrepreneur, was in town recently.

Mr. O'Keefe mentioned that he had worked with Frank Sinatra, whereupon feminine interest perked up. One of the ladies among his audience leaned forward confidentially and said:

"Tell me, Walter, what kind of a fellow is Frank Sinatra?"

"Sinatra," replied Mr. O'Keefe, absolutely deadpan, "is exactly like any other normal 27-year-old American boy making a million and a half dollars a year!"

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

Copyright, 1945, King Features Synd., Inc.

NEW YORK, June 9—There exists on the Broadway stage an occasional practice known as "stepping out of character" which I think ought either to be dropped cold by common consent or carried to its logical (and only fair) conclusion. Its most famous exponent in recent years being the late John Barrymore when he was on the downgrade and impelled by a combination of alcohol and egotism to perform partly as the character of the play and partly as John Barrymore.

Dorothy Kilgallen

As John Barrymore he would address the audience at will, berate the other actors with loud asides, and in every way maltreat the playwright's script and the director's intention, thereby transforming every performance into a pathetic circus at which only the sadistic were amused.

Normally these demonstrations of hamminess and unforgivable bad taste and treachery to all theatrical standards occur after the show has run for a while, for hardly any actor (Barrymore was the exception; he clowned through the premiere of "My Dear Children") dares to step out of line on opening night when the critics are present and the fate of the show depends on the smoothness and pace of that performance.

* * *

HOWEVER, the other night at the opening of "Memphis Bound," the audience was given a little lesson in stepping out of character by the star of the show, Bill Robinson, who, not content with the volume of applause he had received for his acting, his singing and his old stair dance, decided to augment it by a touching little personal revelation.

Ten minutes before the final curtain he turned his back to the other actors on stage, stepped forward, looked the balcony in the eye, and said: "By the way, in just one hour I will be 67 years old."

There was, of course, polite applause. But the show was suddenly not "Memphis Bound" anymore; it was an auld-lang-syne - happy - birthday - to - you clambake. The illusion of the Southland was gone and so was that of the character Mr. Robinson was supposed to have been playing. There was just a stage full of actors looking uncomfortable and Bill Robinson out there telling his age.

Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, June 9—Big plans are on the griddle for the show, "Needle in a Haystack," which Don Hartman has written for Danny Kaye. It marks the beginning of a movie association as well as the stage for Danny and Don, because after Kaye completes two more movies for Sam Goldwyn, the boys will form their company to make a picture of the stage play. In other words, it will never be on the market for sale—but just to show all is peaceful, it's possible Goldwyn will do the releasing. He gets along with Danny and vice versa.

Danny Kaye

Don describes his show as an imaginative satire based on psychoanalysis. But it bears no resemblance, he tells me, to "Lady in the Dark," which Danny played on Broadway with Gertie Lawrence. It's more like the "road" movies Hartman did for Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dottie Lamour—a tongue in cheek idea.

* * *

COL. FRANK CAPRA, who has been in the Army since the very beginning, will receive an honorable discharge in two weeks, as will many of the older men who have served so long. That means Frank will roll up his sleeves and go back to picture making with Sam Briskin, his partner. When I asked Frank if he was going to make "The Flying Yorkshireman" first, he said: "I am not making plans until I am officially notified I am no longer in the Army. So far I haven't been told." But it's my guess that will be the first Capra movie.

* * *

I WAS talking with Ingrid Bergman today and she tells me she will do a condensed version of "The Girl from Lorraine," the Joan of Arc play which Maxwell Anderson is later putting on the stage with her, on her overseas tour with Jack Benny. I asked if she would go to Sweden. "No," she said, "I don't think that is possible because it is not an occupied country, and my only interest in going there would be for selfish reasons." The more I know this Bergman the better I like her. She says there have been no changes in the plan to appear on the stage for Maxwell Anderson but because of the strike it has been postponed until she does "Notorious" for David Selznick.

* * *

MARJORIE MAIN, she of the rusty nail voice, had her tonsils out two weeks ago and all thunder's poppin'. In place of the twang with which she used to heckle Wally Beery, her voice is so dulcet and "refeened" that a poor little sailor on the "Which Is Which" radio show failed to recognize her. "Me sounding like a perfect lady was such a dirty trick on the kid," Marjorie told me, "that I felt I should give him the $50 prize money. Whoever thought my rusty nail voice would become just a tuck?"

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Marguerite Chapman has had word her favorite boy friend, Stanley Pierson, has been upped to major; most of Deanna Durbin's dates these evenings are with Felix Jackson, producer of her pictures; Mary Martin is greatly improved and will come to the Coast when she is well. That means Mary Pickford will get going Sept. 1 with "One Touch of Venus"; Olin Howland who knows beauty when he sees it, is painting the luscious Linda Darnell's picture. She is reciprocating by doing a sketch of him; ran into Larry Trumbel, who once owned Strongheart, the first of the famous dogs. He is training Seeing Eye dogs.

* * *

MERVYN LeROY; who has done such an outstanding job putting on the entertainment honoring Gen. Patton and Lt. Gen. Doolittle today, wants to give credit to Lt. Col. Clifford MacFarland for the Army's part of the show; hear tell Mrs. John Auer, wife of the RKO director, will file for divorce; Joan Blondell's divorce from Dick Powell becomes final June 14, so keep your eye on June Allyson and Dick. That wedding will happen soon.

Boston After Dark

ON THE SITE of the old St. Botolph Club, Newbury at Arlington sts., an intimate and modern motion picture theater is scheduled to be built when "the duration" has changed to "postwar" . . . The policy of the theater will be that of playing important films which have rushed through the first few runs so quickly that thousands of persons simply do not get a chance to view them . . . As many as ten or a dozen good movies classify each year as attractions for such a house as its promoters plan for the Arlington st. location

* * *

THE BOSTON [illegible] theater will [illegible] of its kind . . . It [illegible] key cities the [illegible] for an attractive [illegible] which good motion pictures may be shown long after the films have been rushed through the booking mill . . . The movie industry itself, and constructive critics throughout the country, feel that houses playing a "revival" policy will prosper and fill a void in the system of exhibiting pictures.

* * *

THE SUCCESS of great war films like "The Fighting Lady," has made the commercial movie makers conscious of the great potentialities of 16 mm. film. (the size of the stripe used in so-called "home movies") . . . But all of Hollywood's valuable equipment is geared to the larger 35 mm. sizes, and there is small likelihood that the change to the more economical 16 mm. film will be made for many a year—if at all.

* * *

NOT THAT IT MEANS A thing — but this department liked Jeep to win and Alexis to place in the Run for the Roses at Louisville, Ky., today . . . Narragansett fans were treated Friday to a Rhode Island replica of the "double rainbow" which fans at Fenway Park enjoyed Wednesday . . . The answer perhaps to the frequency of double rainbows is that there has been so much rain in May and June that Mother Nature feels that her old-fashioned single rainbow is utterly inadequate.

* * *

THE STATE Racing commission's action in granting dates for abbreviated meetings at Dighton and Raynham does not mean necessarily that the number of dog-racing dates must be curtailed, as Governor Tobin suggested . . . Plenty of racing dates remain unbooked in late summer and early fall in Bristol County, where the two tracks [illegible] And Wonderland Park [illegible] Suffolk County [illegible] round [illegible] May 15th [illegible] 100 days of racing [illegible] . . . But the [illegible] combination insiders say that the excellence [illegible] effort to [illegible] of Democratic [illegible] Governor [illegible] to be [illegible] . . . The States [illegible] of course [illegible] to be the [illegible] tion when [illegible] showdown comes

* * *

SUFFOLK DOWNS [illegible] biggest opening day in the track's history . . . EXCLUSIVE: The date of Secretary of State Stettinius' leave-taking of his cabinet post is forecast as "on or about July 25" (and by gentlemen who should know) . . . The President is not inclined to ask for the handsome secretary's resignation while Handsome Edward is under a barrage of criticism from the so-called "liberal" newspapers . . . And if the high-pressure pets worst their remains a chance for Mr. S. S. to continue to be Mr. S. S. of S. . . . In fact, his intimates and admirers in the Capitol are delighted to point out, the new President becomes a very bulky gentleman when the pressure boys point their heavy guns

* * *

A TRIBUTE to the great "trouping" of the Boston comedian, Mike Sachs, is Al Somerby's decision to hold the comical veteran over for a third week at the Old Howard . . . Mike has been winning ovations from his fans of long-standing, most of whom knew that Mike's foil, hand-some Alice Kennedy, is directing the old-timer around the stage chiefly through her voice . . . Mike's eyesight has failed so badly that he can distinguish nearby objects only hazily . . . A showroom to be known as "The Plastics Center" will be opened in the Statler Building in September . . . The plastics industry will use the ground-floor premises to display products, and to advertise what is sure to be a booming postwar industry.

Latest salvage activities of the corps shows collection of 45 lbs. of tin; 1351 lbs. of waste paper; 38 comic books and 244 lbs. of kitchen fats. In addition they have bought $1075 in war stamps and bonds.

A few of the outstanding members in Corps 84 are Frank Bonarrigo, Peter Leafer, Delano Cain, Maud Gerry and Lorraine George and Betty Jardine.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 224, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin, well wrapped, in your letter.

Ten Minutes to Tokyo, Or, Bomber's Boswell

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOME FORGOTTEN POET has said, "Solitary suffering is handmaiden to the arts." If so this war may produce a renaissance of American literature. Young men, pawns of fell circumstance, are turning their thoughts inward and finding unsuspected treasure-troves in the caverns of their soul. Men who never wrote creatively before are finding surcease from troubled spirits in the outlets of self expression.

Austen Lake

For example here is an unsolicited manuscript signed, "Boswell of the Bombers" and written, so it says, by an "ex-navigator on the Tokyo run." The author states that he is currently enjoying convalescence from "the prettiest graft on a humerus you ever saw." I might add that the "humerus" is not a funny bone, it is the upper part of the arm.

He writes "The B-29's engines are revving as you walk onto the darkened field. Your chute straps chafe your shoulders and you feel a sudden acceleration of the heart . . . the belly gunner is crawling into his ball turret and curling up like a canned shrimp. The bombardier is tinkering with his bomb sight and the skipper is gunning his motors, head cocked sidewise like a music lover listening to his favorite symphony. The plane is theirs. The stars are yours!

Time Is Not! Space Is Not!

"WE ARE AIRBORNE NOW, feeling the guoyant lift of the big ship as you fasten down a blank log-sheet with adhesive strips and enter the takeoff time at 22:31. You glance at the meteorological data furnished by the ready-room and note the changes of wind-speed and direction at 6000 feet. Now your drift readings, watching while the darkened landscape passes through parallel lines of the meter. What's the compass reading? Correct deviation! Compute the true course! Examine charts once more and advise the pilot of his altered course. Speed 260, altitude 12,000. A 1 per cent mistake will take you hundreds of miles off your course —fatal to your gas allowance.

You take a celestial fix through your sextant telescope and screw it down till it reaches the bubble; take the computator from its case and locate position. Take another weather memo. You've already got your magnetic heading. So calculate your bubble drift and keep an eye on the second hand of your GI watch.

"Ahhhhh! On course and time-schedule! For TIME is that extra dimension in the navigator's ether ocean where eternity seems compressed into tiny clock ticks . . . Now you can relax as time melts into the anesthesia where minutes are hours and hours are minutes . . . on, and on, and on.

"Convulsive jolts begin to lift the plane and you feel the pilot veer sharply in steep banks. Your safety straps tug against your thighs and he loses altitude steeply. Instinctively and without emotion you realize you are over enemy land. The Jap's sonic detectors have spotted your position and he is sending up flak which explode in incandescent firefly flashes and leave dark smudges hanging in the growing dawn. That silver topped hump through the overcoat is Fujiyama! The show is on.

"Ten minutes to the target now, six miles above the ground. You switch on the intercom and mutter with crisp formality, "Navigator to pilot," hearing his equally formal reply. Ten minutes to go, gotta come down. No need to check driftage now! The farahead glow of incendiary fires has lit the target area with a golden aura, fires that twinkle phosphorescently and spread fitfully as you begin the downward glide in bumpy air. You study the pattern between swift glances at your watch.

Like Marbles in a Tin Can!

"FOUR MINUTES NOW . . . THREE MINUTES . . . two. The ground ahead is a pool of light like the drippings of molten slag from an open hearth steel furnace with islands of black in between. Bombs from your lead echelon explode in instant angry cores of flame, drowning themselves in ruddy smoke and springing to life again like the spread of fiery egg yolks.

"Your bomb bays are open and your pilot heads for one of the dark islands where dimly you see a herringbone design of factory roofs. The bombardier stoops over his bomb sight and growls through the intercom, "right a hair more . . . stead-e-e-e," and then with conversational casualness, "Bingo! They're off!"

The big plane gives a convulsive lurch as from sheer relief of dumping its burden. "Let's hell-cat outa here," says the skipper banking sharply and heading south . . . One of the portside engines conks, its prop gradually losing its silvery arc and shaking the plane with jolting vibrations until the pilot gets it feathered. You hear a voice yell, "Fighters at 9 o'clock" and listen to the waist guns rattle like marbles in a tin can. You unstrap your safety belt and go back to lend a hand, watching the orange tracers shoot off at tangents. The plane shudders as a hole, big as an apple barrel, appears near the bomb doors. Time is reversed now! Seconds become eternity as the skipper gives his remaining three engines full throttle.

"The din dies, daylight comes. You go back to your maps again! It's easier now. You've got the whole morning and the whole expanse of the ocean to get home in. You spot your position for emergency landings and hear yourself talking to nobody. You plot course, correct DR, bend over your plotting board and try to ignore the laboring motors. Hours in concentrated sweat drift by while you wonder if your computations are correct. The lives of the crew center on your accuracy. Beneath you in the golden sun you sight the dark smear of your island base. Numbly you feel the ground bump under your wheels and the awkward waddle to a stop. You feel a sudden metallic taste in your mouth and an overpowering heaviness in your legs. Your voice comes from far away, "Yeah, we gooled 'em." Then sleep, deep and dreamless!

Governor's Handicap To Top Suffolk Opening

By JACK CONWAY

THE GOVERNOR'S Handicap over a distance of one mile and for a purse of $5000 will be the feature of the Suffolk Downs opening on Monday. With 21 nominations for a time it looked as if Racing Secretary Charley McLennan would have to run the race off in two sections. McLennan, however, has received word from some of the horsemen that they will not start their thoroughbreds and he believes the field will consist of 14 horses.

Toolmaker, Valdina Craft, Boot And Spur, Son O'Hal and Cavatorta are definite starters. These horses have been running at Narragansett Park and they have shown good form.

Castleman and Spangled Game, top-weighted horses, will not be starters. These two crack handicap horses will apear later at the 54-day Suffolk Downs meeting.

Other horses nominated for the Governor's Handicap were Dinner Party, Float Me, Side Boy, Salvo, Kewey Dee, Mixer, Romulus, Sollure, Unknown Reward, Rocket Bal, Onecbill, Miss Balladier and Rain Miss.

"I find that horesmen are eager to race their thoroughbreds," said Racing Secretary Charley McLennan. "We shall have a fine field in the Governor's Handicap on Monday, while the other races on the opening's day program will also produce plenty of competition."

Mintlock on Grounds

MINTLOCK, wno won $22,500 last year, has been working out at Suffolk Downs under the supervision of Trainer Merle Simmons. Mintlock is a New England favorite, and he will take part in a number of races during the Suffolk Downs meeting.

Simmons, like other horsemen, likes the condition of the track at Suffolk Downs.

"There is not a track in the country that dries out as fast as Suffolk Downs," Joe Tomasello told me. "I hope we get good weather on Sunday so that the track will be fast for the opening."

Governor Tobin and other distinguished persons will be the guests of Allan Wilson, president and Eddie Goode, treasurer, on opening day. Gov. A. Howard McGrath has notified Wilson that he will also attend the opening. Gov. Dale of New Hampshire has also been invited to be present as the Massachusetts racing season gets under way.

Gansett Closes Today

THE 25-DAY Narragansett Park meeting will close today with the $7500 added "The Blackstone Valley" featuring. There were so many entries that it was decided to run off the race in two sections. This will furnish racegoers with two great races, while it will also give the owners of the expensive thoroughbreds an opportunity to strive for two rich purses.

It will be "Charity Day," and President James E. Dooley estimates that $75,000 will be turned over to worthy Rhode Island charities.

Narragansett Park has enjoyed the most successful spring meeting in its history. There have been record crowds, mutuel handle and good racing. Today's handle will soar past the $1,600,000 mark.

Rip Collins Auctions Off 6 Million Bonds

ALBANY, N. Y., June 9 (AP)—Albany Eastern League baseball fans value Manager James "Rip" Collins and $6,000,000 worth of war bonds alike.

The Ripper was auctioned off to an Albany bank for that amount at a bond rally last night. He brought $2,500,000 at a similar rally last year.

Expect 75,000 Fans At Kentucky Derby

By LAWTON CARVER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 9 (INS)—Early morning rain ended at noon and the sun broke through threatening clouds to shine down brightly at intervals on the track where the Kentucky Derby will be run for the 71st time.

The crowd was slow in arriving and as the first race went off shortly after noon there seemed to be fewer than 10,000 spectators on the premises. But there was an unending flow of traffic toward Churchill Downs, and a probable crowd of 75,000 was indicated.

The 16 three-year-olds entered yesterday for the mile and a quarter run still were on the programs, but late scratches were possible and even likely, depending upon how the track reacts to the sun.

The early races were run in slop and the track was certain to be heavy or sloppy for the Derby.

There seemed to be no doubt as to which of the 16 candidates would be the favorite. Hoop, Jr., with Eddie Arcaro in the saddle, was talked about on every hand, and Jeep seemed to be a steadfast second choice. Arnold Kirkland was his rider.

Any of the rest of the 16 could wind up as third choice or almost as an outsider. It was wide open from the start with such standouts a Pavot and Free for All out of it, and the track condition has increased the confusion.

Most of the trainers were uncertain as to the chances of their horses under prevailing conditions. Few have gone in the mud and none so far as a mile and a quarter.

The trainers of doubtful mudders were committed to awaiting the late afternoon before scratching, which is permitted up to 45 minutes of post time, and the opinion was general that all possibly would go to make this the richest Derby in the 71-year history of America's oldest continuously run classic.

As the afternoon wore along, all the parking lots around the Downs were filled nearly as far as the eye could see and the infield down the stretch rail was well cluttered with spectators, flags and one of the several bands strewn about the premises.

Barring late scratches, the field of 16 will be made up of Hoop Jr. and Jeep as the probable choices in that order, Alexis, Foreign Agent, Air Sailor, Burning Dream, Pot O' Luck, Fighting Step, Darby Dieppe, and seven grouped in the field—Bymeabond, Sea Swallow, Tiger Rebel, Jacobe, Bert G., Kenilworth Lad and the filly Misweet.

In the midst of all this many who saw Darby Dieppe take the Blue Grass Stakes a week ago on an off track, beating several of the Derby entries, reckoned he might be the one to beat.

Dante Winner Of English Derby

NEWMARKET, Eng., June 9 (AP)—Sir Eric Ohlsen's Dante, the public choice at 10 to 3 odds, won the famed English Derby today by two lengths after traveling the mile and a half of the L-shaped course in 2:26 3-5.

An overflow crowd that included the King and Queen was estimated by police at 30,000 saw Dante shunt Lord Rosebery's Midas to second and Lord Astor's Court Martial to third with a blazing stretch drive.

Princess Elizabeth also saw the race in which Dante broke the jinx that had kept the first five war-time favorites from reaching the winners' circle.

It probably was Britain's last Derby under war-time conditions as plans already are under way to shift the 165-year-old event back to its peace-time home at Epsom Downs.

Bookmakers estimated that $40,000,000 changed hands on the outcome of the race, making it the heaviest British betting race in many years.

Dante was offered for sale as a yearling by Sir Eric, but he could not find a purchaser. He told King George after the race "that I have always maintained that my horse was the best in England. Many people would not believe me when I said his defeat in the 2000 guineas was due to an eye injury."

Carnera Is Coming, What For, Who Cares?

LONDON (AP)—The Brussels' radio, quoting a Milan broadcast, said yesterday that Primo Carnera, former heavyweight champion of the world, planned to return to the ring and box in the United States.

Popeye Wins, Seeks LaMotta

Walter "Pop-eye" Woods, a ring character who clowned and punched his way to a close victory over Bert Lytell in a 10-round bout at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Garden, is today aiming his fistic fire at Jake LaMotta of New York.

The "Pop-eye" person says that his baffling defensive style, supported by an occasional volley of right hand punches, would upset LaMotta.

"Pop-eye" didn't look any the worse physically as a result of his hectic bout with Lytell. The latter directed most of his punches to the body as early in the bout he found Woods' chin too difficult a target to tag.

FANS LIKE POP-EYE

"Pop-eye" has caught the fancy of boxing fans who are amused by his peculiar ring style, and who like to see him land with his trademark right hand punch.

Referee Johnny Martin and Judges Tom Kirby and Joe Blumsack were unanimous for Woods.

Rudy Richardson, 152, New York, took a unanimous 8-round decision over Buster Peaks, 157½, Detroit, in the semi-final.

Jackie Harris, 131, Malden, took a TKO over Eddie Berry, 131½, Portland, Me., when Berry couldn't come out for the fourth in a scheduled six-rounder. Harris had him down twice for nine in the third.

Bernie McNally, 202, Cambridge, kayoed Joe Lydon, 183½, Boston, at 59 seconds of the first round.

Jackie O'Brien, 193, Cambridge, kayoed Ray Cobbs, 192, Roxbury, at 1:30 of the first round.

TODAY'S ROLL OF HONOR

"... Greatness appears in every hour; it rises from the gloom on wings resplendent with a bitter loss. Nothing is now of pettiness or dross, but steadfast, silent payment, Freedom's price, a resolution overmastering doom, and warrior's crown of infinite sacrifice." —(Gorell.)

The War Department today announced, through the Office of War Information, the names of 39 CASUALTIES of the European and Pacific regions and 283 LIBERATED PRISONERS residing in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.

The casualties include 14 DEAD, 18 WOUNDED IN ACTION and SEVEN MISSING IN ACTION.

Next of kin in all cases have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status. In case of divergence between this list and information sent to next of kin, the last War Department telegram or letter to next of kin is the final authority on a soldier's status.

No Navy casualties were reported today.
